Moses' Excuses, God's Answers

God told Moses he wanted to send him to deliver his people. He responded, "Who am I that I should go to Pharaoh, and that I should bring the children of Israel out of Egypt?" God took away the excuse by promising to be with him. Anyone is someone with Almighty God on his side (Exodus 3:9-12; Romans 8:31).

Moses asked who he should say had sent him. God said to, "I Am has sent me," or the One who exists by His Own power (Exodus 3:13-14; Revelation 1:4)! Moses was to tell the Israelite elders that God had seen their suffering, would deliver them and take them to the promised land. Moses and the elders were to ask Pharaoh to let them go three days' journey into the wilderness to worship their God. He foretold that Pharaoh would not let them go, even by a powerful hand. The Almighty would send them out with abundance as if Egypt had been plundered (Exodus 3:13-22; Genesis 15:14)!

Moses said the people would not believe him. God gave him three miracles designed to convince the elders that he was God's chosen messenger. His rod would become a serpent and turn back into a rod. His hand would be leprous and then whole again. Water from the river would turn to blood when poured out on the ground (Exodus 4:1-9).

Moses next said he was not an eloquent public speaker, either before God began speaking or at that very moment. This excuse borders on being an accusation against God. It is tacitly false, as Deuteronomy demonstrates. God did not remedy this supposed problem, but said he had made man's mouth and could strengthen Moses (Exodus 4:10-12).

Moses finally asked God to send anyone but him. God was angry because he had promised all necessary aid. He gave Moses Aaron as his mouthpiece. The ultimate power would come from God as he gave Moses the words to speak (Exodus 4:13-17).

The futility of making excuses to God is evident. He made us. He knows us. He will not ask us to do anything we are unable to do.

System Reset

It's Monday morning and you are tired. You get to the office; already dreading the day ahead, when suddenly you remember you forgot to print the reports for your boss. You rush over to your computer. It is fifteen minutes before the big meeting. You open your computer and try to access the file. Nothing is working. "What is wrong with this machine?" You finally decide to restart your whole system. Slowly but surely the system begins to open up. You are barely able to get everything printed that you need but you make it. Your week has officially begun. Your week is as busy as ever and you promise yourself that this weekend you are going to get some rest. One activity leads to two, maybe three. Church services on Sunday followed by more activities Sunday night. It is now Monday morning again.

Many people rush through life, day in and day out, and they never take time to rest. Sooner or later if we do not take care of ourselves we find ourselves like that old computer on Monday morning, in desperate need to be shut down and restarted. As a Christian, living a life that is so focused on the next activity hurts more than just our physical life. Our spiritual lives begin to take a back seat to everything else and eventually we find ourselves looking back wondering how did things go so wrong.

Jesus taught many great lessons while He was here on the earth that can help us as we live our lives. These principles are applicable for day-to-day living and for those times where we need a good reset. Here are just a few. In Matthew 11:28 Jesus says, "Come to me, all who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." We see in this verse that the rest that we all truly need can be found in Christ but we need to come to Him. Jesus himself, went off by himself in Matthew 14:23, after the feeding of the five thousand. Here we see specifically that He went off by Himself to pray.

Prayer is how we come to Christ and take to Him our cares. But we need more than just rest and prayer. In Matthew 11:29 when Jesus is letting us know how we can find true rest He gives us some instructions, "learn from Me". As Christians today we learn from God by studying His Word. As we study His Word and grow in faith we become better prepared to take on each day. But that still leaves the question of our busy and over scheduled lives. What do we do about that? In Matthew 6:33 we read, "But seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added to you." In our lives we are to be focused on God and less on the cares of the world. When we get distracted by the world instead of on the things of God our spiritual lives will suffer and we will be in need of a good restart. Each day we should take time to be alone with God in prayer and in the Word. As we plan our lives we need to always remember to put God first. Lastly, we must all remember to take time to rest. All of these things will help us in life and will help us as we live for Him.
