Helping the Next Generation

Joshua and his generation knew the Lord and witnessed the way he worked to force Pharaoh to release them. They saw his care in the wilderness. Joshua's generation remained true to his will. They seem to have failed to tell the next generation of the Lord's powerful deliverance (Judges 2:7-10).

The nations Israel failed to drive out were polytheists. They had no problem worshiping the true God and their false gods at the same time. Israel was to forsake all other gods (Exodus 20:3; Deuteronomy 6:10-25; 13:6-18). Israel failed to see the danger. She is described as laying down to prostitute herself with false gods (Judges 2:11-13). They committed spiritual fornication, sinning against God, their husband (Hosea 2:2-13).

God had to punish such wickedness to remain righteous (Psalm 89:14). He delivered them into the hands of enemies who took the spoils of their land (Judges 2:14-15). The Almighty did not cease to love them. He sent judges to deliver them when he heard their groaning (Judges 2:16). They enjoyed the blessings of deliverance, but went right back into idolatry when the judge died, which resulted in God being angry with them (Judges 2:17-19, 20-23).

We are blessed far beyond physical Israel (Ephesians 1:3). We should make it a point to emphasize those blessings to our children (Ephesians 6:4). Teach them the will of God (2 Timothy 3:15). Help them recognize the blessings to be found in Christ. We must demonstrate the love of God in all that we do. Pray our children will follow our example and not suffer the wrath of God when he is spurned.
