There Is No “I” in “Team”

The title of this article is a truth that was known long before I was around. However, the sentiment of the phrase will remain long after this article is written. When I look back at SALT, I see the blessing of what it is like to be a part of a team with that mindset. I deeply appreciate all those who brought food, ran registration, sound board and cameras, chaperoned, and even just attended SALT in this new format. It was because of us adhering to this phrase “there is no ‘I’ in ‘team’” that it worked.

Along with us accomplishing much with SALT as a team, we accomplished so much this year as a church family. We established a sense of normalcy in meeting together, and bringing back more opportunities to fellowship. We made a point to emphasize evangelism in every aspect of the things we do not only at church, but also in our daily walks of life. The youth have grown from a plurality of examples because of your willingness to be a part of their spiritual growth by hosting TNT, coming to see them at camp, visiting them at Hang Time, and different activities they are doing. None of these things would be possible if only one person was working on accomplishing it, so thank you for your work.

With the new year approaching, I encourage you to keep working for Lord’s team. Paul writes in 1 Corinthians 4:1 that we are “servants of Christ and stewards of the mysteries of God.” I picture this as Christians being entrusted with making sure we take the gospel to all peoples, both near and far. Stewards are those who care for and nurture something that is not theirs. Christians are the stewards of God’s word. The only way we do that is by working as a team. Paul again says in Romans 12:10, “Love one another with brotherly affection, outdo one another in showing honor.” Everyone loves a good teammate. With that in mind, the title of this piece may take a new meaning. While there is no I in team, there is a “me”. So, make that choice to stay part of this team or make the choice to join it.
